

Men and Women of God

God's people have always been called to do hard things. Throughout Biblical history, men and women of God have stood up to lead, sometimes reluctantly and sometimes willingly. People like Daniel, Esther, and Job, among others, were used by God to save people or be an example for others to follow. We can learn from them by living out the image of God in us by doing what He has called us to do. Of course, Jesus is our ultimate example of this as these Biblical characters looked to Him as their future hope.
